

Growing Together Growing Together

Wednesday 15th June 2pm to 6pm

Holt Hall Environmental and Outdoor Learning Centre will be hosting this exciting new conference based in and around the Victorian Walled Garden.

This is an afternoon conference for those teaching or supporting gardening in schools. The conference will bring together the many organisations that offer support to schools for growing projects. There will be a particular focus on working with those young people who have Special Needs or Complex Learning requirements.

Hayley Young is the Royal Horticultural Society SEN Project officer will be delivering the key note address. Hayley has been gardening in schools since 2005 and she is the author of a special report following her work with 6 SEN Schools in Southern England. The report is called Growing Together: Gardening with Children and Young People with Special Educational Needs.

The afternoon will be free of charge, with a cream tea and refreshments included a tour of the walled garden with a Question and Answer session. A market place of available opportunities, projects and resources in and around Norfolk will be present.
