If you are not a seasoned gardener, buying a Christmas present for a gardener can be a difficult task. How do you know if what is bought will be practically required or useful? With the current economic climate, the present purchased has to be fit for purpose, or money will be wasted. The answer lays with an experienced company who are well known for their innovative and practical products for every gardener.

Mail order UK company, Harrod Horticultural sell over 500 superior products for every gardener, so choosing a Christmas present from their range couldn't be easier. With a mail order catalogue and website to browse through, going out in the icy cold wind and rain to buy presents is avoided and the gifts are then delivered to your door.

“Practical presents will be the theme for gifts this Christmas. Last year I treated myself to a pair of stylish RHS Rose Clogs which are perfect for slipping on at the back door and wandering over to my Kitchen Garden to harvest the latest produce. The Cast Iron Boot Brush and Jack is also ideal for cleaning my wellies after walking my dogs”, says Stephanie Harrod, Managing Director of Harrod Horticultural.

With gardening accessories such as smart aprons, luxurious gloves and essential potting shed accessories including an allotment kit, seed saving tins and garden line, any gardener can put these gifts to practical use. Why not try the high quality Joseph Bentley range of hand and long handled tools for the young budding gardener. The lightweight, compact size children's tools are specifically designed for children over the age of 6.

For an extra special gift for a gardener close to you, Harrod Horticultural can engrave a small, short fat or heart shaped, famous Sneeboer trowel with a unique message of your choice of up to 75 characters.
