Arch Rivals Look On in Despair!

Researched, designed and manufactured in-house from high-end quality materials – that's the impressive pedigree behind Harrod Horticultural's exclusive new Garden Arch range, to be launched at the RHS Chelsea Flower Show in May.

The leading Lowestoft-based mail order garden product manufacturers and suppliers have developed three inspirational designs of Garden Arch to suit practically any garden style and situation, using their 60 years of manufacturing experience. With three variations of width and height for each type of arch to choose from and connectors that fit inside the frame for a flush and neat finish, finding a structure to fit into your own space isn't going to be a problem.

Consultation with professional garden landscapers and listening to customer research has resulted in the use of quality materials and finish, as well as a breadth of size options. Each arch is made from galvanised, thick walled, 25mm square steel tubing that is high temperature powder coated to give a resilient finish. We've included 3 width sizes (1.5m, 2m & 2.5m), heights ranges from 2.4m to 3m, a choice of 0.6m and 1.2m depths whilst we can bespoke a design to individual customer needs too!

If it's a standard, traditional arch shape you're looking for to display your climbing plants and roses then the Roman Arch is the one for you. Span a path measuring 1.5, 2 or 2.5m wide with the choice of sizes and enjoy watching the structure being gradually engulfed by roses, clematis, honeysuckle or any number of climbing plants.

If Gothic is the theme of your garden or it's a look you particularly admire, then the arch of the same name will fit your garden vista perfectly. Once again measuring 1.5, 2 or 2.5m in width, this stunning design features the typical pointed 'church window' top and effortlessly marries style with the strength synonymous with Harrod Horticultural products.

The Final design in the range is the eye-catching Ogee Arch, all flowing lines and architectural elegance and the perfect platform to give your climbers their legs! Available in the same three width options as the Roman and Gothic versions, the Ogee will grace any garden on its own or as part of a series embracing a garden path or promenade.

Displaying their versatility, all the arches in the new range can be placed in soil or directly onto a hard surface such as a path or patio via the surface socket option providing you with even more scope to use your creative skills and imagination in the garden. The Harrod Superior Garden Arch Range will look stunning when stood alone clothed in climbers, or link a number of them together to create a pergola or a floral walkway - thus creating a secret perfumed garden of dappled light and shade on a glorious summer's evening!

Ogee Style

It's reassuring to know that the arches are made from the high specification pre-galvanised, black powder-coated, 25mm square steel tubing that Harrod Horticultural are synonymous with using for their renowned Steel Fruit Cages, giving you the confidence that introducing a Harrod Horticultural arch to your garden is a long term investment and will provide support to your climbing plants in no uncertain style!
